The Hong Kong PhD Fellowship offers:

- a monthly stipend of HK$25,800 (~US$3,289) for 3 years; and
- a yearly allowance of HK$12,900 (~US$1,644) for conference and research related travel allowance for 3 years.

In addition, PolyU offers:

- the 4th year stipend/allowance with the same provision, if required;
- tuition waiver scholarship for the entire normal study period; and
- guaranteed hall accommodation for 2 years.

Once the applicants are nominated by PolyU to RGC as candidates for HKPFS, they are:

- accepted as PhD students with a research studentship (guaranteed for the first year of their study with a possibility to be renewed in subsequent years subject to their good academic performance); or
- accepted as PhD students with International Postgraduate Scholarship. The Scholarship offers a research studentship of between 2 to 4 years (depending on the academic qualifications, international exposure and work experience of the applicant) and a waiver of tuition fees for the normal study period.

Applicants are encouraged to contact the potential Chief Supervisors for details of their research projects. The contact list of Chief Supervisors can be obtained at <http://www.polyu.edu.hk/study/rpg>.

Admission Requirements

1. Academic qualification

HKPFS candidates should possess:

- a Bachelor's degree with First Class Honours, or the equivalent, conferred by a recognised university; or
